

FOLLOWING FLORA'S FOOTSTEPS

Writing Prompt

Imagine that you are Flora, a young slave at Kingsley Plantation, and dawn seemed to come extra early this morning. Your mother woke you up, gave you some leftover flatbread, and sent you outside for the early morning meeting. At this meeting you learned what your task, or job, was going to be for the day. Since you are still pretty young, you didn't do really heavy work out in the fields, but you still had certain tasks that you had to complete before the end of the day. Using the drawing of the plantation to help you, imagine that you are Flora and just now finishing your day's tasks. Write one paragraph describing your feelings about each of the jobs you completed. Be sure to use your best writing skills - don't forget to use complete sentences!